Everyone Is a Rock Star at Spotify's Rock Band Bootcamp

"You might think music lessons are for kids, or that if you've never picked up an instrument before, your opportunity to play has passed. We don't think that's the case, which is why our People Experience team introduced Spottifiers to Rock Band Bootcamp, a program that disproves those theories one sweet guitar riff at a time—and can also help to build an exciting musical future.

To begin Rock Band Bootcamp in our New York office, we enlisted the help of Bob Elliott, founder of Music Makers NY. This summer, Bob and co-instructor Baden Goyo brought students together for collaborative group lessons on guitar, piano, and vocals over the course of eight weeks.

"I saw a message that there were guitar lessons available right around when I started at Spotify six months ago," recalls product manager Joshua Boggs. "I thought it would be awesome. I've never played an instrument before, but I love music, and also want to learn more about music ... Music is not only essential to Spotify, but it's an important part of my team."
